BEN RICHARDSON TAKEN TO ROCKY MOUNT, N. C.

Negro Arrested by Wilmington Police Friday Has Ugly Record—Other Notes of the Courts Yesterday.

Policeman J. M. Reams, of Rocky Mount, came down yesterday, and last night took back with him the negro, Ben Richardson, arrested here Friday upon advices from Chief Phillips, of Rocky Mount. Richardson is wanted for the larceny, 18 months ago, of a box of clothing valued at about $70 from in front of the store of S. P. Robbins & Co. The case was worked up by an A. C. L. detective, and it was found that a part of the clothing had been sold at Florence, S. C. Jim Venie, a notorious negro character, who played the role of detective for some time, was arrested yesterday by the Rocky Mount authorities and made a confession of the theft, implicating Richardson. It will be remembered that Richardson shot Venie in this city a few months ago, because the latter had been "telling tales out of school."

Policeman Leon George yesterday "ran in" Joe Hill and Governor Moseley, both colored, for an innocent little game of crap they had in progress at Second and Brunswick streets. Emma Moore, colored, for being drunk and disorderly at Fourth and Church streets, was also arrested yesterday by Policeman M. A. Jones.

In the mayor's court yesterday Jim Sanford, colored, was given 20 days on the roads for an assault. Missie Pearce, for an affray with Rosetta Brown at Second and Brunswick streets, was given 30 days on the roads. The preliminary trial of Ed. Smith, charged with burglary, was continued for witnesses.

The preliminary trial of the four negroes charged with the larceny of $285 from a Brooklyn shop keeper, was continued by Justice Fowler until Wednesday.

Probably Struck By Train.

A negro badly used up was found on the railroad track a few miles this side of Whiteville Friday night. COTTON YEAR CLOSED

Receipts Since September 1, 1902, Have Crawled Up to Nearly 300,000 Bales.

HEAVY SHIPPING IN AUGUST.

Arrival of Vessels Breaks All Records for the Month Since 1895—Vessels That Arrived and Departed Yesterday—Other Notes.

The cotton crop year for 1901-1902 comes to a close with the receipts which will be brought in over the various transportation lines to-day. The official figures will be posted on the Exchange boards of the Chamber of Commerce to-morrow, but through the courtesy of Secretary James Kyle the following data is now available:

The net receipts for the year, estimated, are 284,299 bales, while the figures at the close of business yesterday were 282,025. Last year the receipts for the year were 258,561, showing a gain in favor of this year by about 25,000 bales. The receipts of new crop cotton this year at the beginning of new season were 6,000 bales, while last year very little new staple was received in August.

The exports, of course, show a gain in view of the increased receipts, and they are divided as follows: Great Britain, 119,075 bales; Continent, 142,781; New York, 7,846; Interior, via rail, 1,001.

The receipts of new crop cotton yesterday were as heavy as were ever recorded in one day in August at the Exchange—1,135 bales. One day last week the receipts were exactly the same. All roads shared in the transportation yesterday but the W. C. & A., as usual was ahead with something over a thousand bales.

Heavy Shipping in August.

The monthly report of Capt. Edgar D. Williams, harbor master, for August shows a material increase in the port's shipping over the same month last year. Thirty vessels of 90 tons and over arrived and their combined tonnage was 27,283 against 16 vessels of 18,676 tons during August, 1901; in fact, the August, 1902, shipping is ahead of all August records since 1895. The detailed report for the month is as follows:

American—Ten steamers, 12,741 tons; 2 barges, 2,886 tons; 14 schooners, 7,317 tons. Total, 26 vessels; 22,944 tons.

Foreign—Two steamships, 3,645 tons; one barque, 498 tons; one schooner, 196 tons. Total, 4 vessels, 4,339 tons.

Capt. Edgar D. Williams' books also show a very interesting compilation of the tonnage of vessels that entered the port during the cotton year ended Aug. 31st. The report shows a total of 150 steamers, 210,947 tons; 21 barques, 11,471 tons; 3 brigs, 686 tons; 119 schooners, 40,962 tons; 11 barges, 18,976 tons. The grand total vessels is 304, with a combined tonnage of 283,032. These are divided into American and foreign vessels as follows:

American—111 steamers, 145,001 tons; 3 barques, 1,679 tons; 1 brig, 294 tons; 11 barges, 18,976 tons; 11 schooners, 38,868 tons.

Foreign—39 steamers, 65,940 tons; 18 barques, 9,791 tons; 2 brigs, 392 tons; 9 schooners, 2,094 tons.

The total foreign vessels is 68; American, 236.

The Day's Arrivals and Departures.

The following vessels passed out at Southport yesterday: Steamer Oneida, New York, 2:50 P. M.; schooner Chas. Linthicum, Baltimore; 8:30 A. M.; schooner Jno. Twohy, Boston, 7 A. M., and Swedish barque Hermod, Amsterdam, 8:30 A. M.

The schooner Wm. F. Green, in charge of the jovial, good-natured Capt. Stratton, cleared yesterday with a cargo of rough and dressed lumber consigned by the Kidder Lumber Co., to Grenada.

The schooner Frank W. McCullough, 137 tons, Capt. Brink, arrived yesterday afternoon from Beaufort, N. C, for a cargo. She sailed up the river from Southport.

Died of His Injuries.

Charleston Post: "A. D. Stafford, the young white man who was run over by an Atlantic Coast Line train several days ago, died last night in the city hospital from the results of his injuries. The accident occurred between Pembroke, N. C. and Florence. This morning Coroner O'Donnell held an inquest over the body and the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by being run over by train No. 210 of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and that it was the result of an accident."

Columbus Teachers' Institute.

Prof. Washington Catlett returned yesterday from Whiteville, where he conducted a teachers' institute during the past week. He reports the county of Columbus fully abreast the times in the educational movement and a profitable session of the Institute.

VISITING CLERGYMEN TO OCCUPY LOCAL PULPITS.

Rev. Dr. Jno. C. Kilgo, the distinguished president of Trinity College, Durham, arrived in the city last evening and is a guest of his friend, Rev. J. N. Cole, pastor of Grace M. E. church. This morning Dr. Kilgo will occupy the pulpit of Fifth Street Methodist church and at night he will preach at Grace M. E. church. There will be special music at each service.

Returning from a delightful vacation spent with his friend, Mr. J. S. Johnson, of Baltimore, Dr. A. D. McClure stopped yesterday at Goldsboro and will preach the annual sermon to-day at the Wayne County Sunday School Convention, which is in session at Salem Presbyterian church, three miles north of Goldsboro. In Dr. McClure's absence the services at St. Andrew's church will be conduced at the usual hours to-day by Rev. Robert M. Mann, of Clinton.

Rev. Dr. T. E. Brown, of Franklin, Pa., who has been visiting his brother, Mr. C. C. Brown, for a week or ten days, will preach at the First Baptist church at the usual hours to-day. Dr. Brown is a strong and interesting preacher and will be heard by a large congregation.

Evangelist "Dick" Morse, who is known the State over for his vigorous campaign against strong drink, will lecture at Southside Baptist church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He has just arrived from Charlotte.

AGED NEGRO FLATMAN DROWNED.

Fell Into River Near Point Peter Thursday Night—Body Found Yesterday.

Glenmore Battle, a colored flat hand, 50 years old and a native of Summerville, Brunswick county, fell into the river at Point Peter Thursday night and was drowned. His body was recovered yesterday morning from the bottom of the river near where it went down, by Larry Loeve, colored, who has probably recovered more drowned bodies from the Cape Fear than any man living. Dr. Bell, the coroner, viewed the body soon after it came from the water and as there was no evidence of foul play, an inquest was deemed unnecessary. The body was sent to the negro's old home for burial.

Battle came here on a flat which brought cross-ties for the Hall Tie and Lumber Co. Thursday night he got very drunk and was seen asleep beside a bottle of liquor ten feet from the water. The night watchman on the premises later discovered the bottle of liquor and the colored man's hat, with the owner nowhere in sight. His exact fate was unknown until the body was fished out of the water yesterday morning.

THE BEACH SCHEDULE TO-DAY.

Trolley Cars Yesterday Handled Between 600 and 700 Passengers.

Even upon the limited schedule that was possible yesterday the suburban cars to the beach transported between six and seven hundred persons. Several times that number will be handled to-day upon a schedule that is liberal to say the least of it.

Yesterday there were only four round trips, but to-day there will be a car each hour to and from the beach between the hours of 9 A. M. and 10 P.M. The first and last cars will leave the beach at 9:45 A. M. and 10:45 P. M., respectively. The only train of the steam equipment to leave the city to-day will be that scheduled at 10:30 A. M.

Car No. 31 was gotten in readiness by 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and it joined "No. 33" in doing a good day's business. The last car to the beach last night left the city a little after 11:30 o'clock and it was well laden with passengers. To-day the traffic will be immense.

In the Florence Shops.

Florence Times: "Things continue to be busy down at the shops. The number of men in the different departments is on the increase. Very little work has been brought from the old Plant system in comparison with what was expected. The Plant system engine 4, which was brought to these shops some time ago for repairs, has been overhauled and sent out as A. C. L. 176. A number of the coal burners have been changed to wood burners since the coal strike. The coal strike is too doubtful and too high, so the front ends look different."

Music at Fifth Street Church.

Mr. James Charles Craft will be the organist at the morning service of Fifth Street M. E. Church to-day, and the following singers will render two excellent quartettes: Miss Maude Bulluck, Mrs. F. A. Muse, Mr. C. H. Cooper and Mr. Jas. S. Williams. The sermon will be by Rev. Dr. Jno. C. Kilgo.

Up the River To-day.

The steamer Wilmington will make but one trip to-day and that will be at 3 P. M., fifteen miles up the Cape Fear river. The fare is only 20 cents for the round trip. The steamer will reach the city on the return at 6:30 P. M.

Senator from Harnett.

The Senatorial Convention of the Fifteenth district met at Dunn, N. C., yesterday. H. L. Godwin, Esq., and C. W. Richardson were nominated by acclamation.

LABOR DAY MONDAY.

Observance Will Be More General and Appropriate This Year Than Ever Before.

CARPENTERS AND JOINERS.

Programme Arranged by Enthusiastic Committee from Local Union 899. Many Visitors from Southport Coming—Other Events.

There is an earnest in the very active preparations that have been going on in the city for several weeks that Labor Day to-morrow in Wilmington will be more generally observed than ever before.

Of course, the most pronounced observance will be on the part of organized labor, and in the very front rank of this class stands the Carpenters and Joiners' Union of America, a committee from which has been at work arranging an appropriate celebration for several weeks.

The Labor Day committee reports everything in great shape for the celebration at the beach.

Owing to the lack of facilities on account of the delay in getting new suburban cars enough to handle the crowds, the steam cars will be resorted to in addition to the electric cars.

The genial manager, Mr. Skelding has kindly offered to transport free of charge the high diving outfit and other paraphernalia for the games at the beach.

Southport writes that she will be up in full blast with wives, sisters and sweethearts, and Wilmington will thus be given another chance to show her hospitality in entertaining her neighbors as well as the strangers within her gates.

The programme as finally arranged, is as follows:

Carpenters and citizens will meet at hall, at 9 A. M., and go in a body to escort the Southport visitors to the hall where the address of welcome will be delivered by Mr. J. E. Smith at 10 A. M.

11 A. M.—All will take cars for the beach.

12:30 P. M.—Oration of the Day.

2 P. M.—Prize foot race between Southport and Wilmington sprinters

2:30 P. M.—Basket ball contest between Y. M. C. A. and A. C. L. teams.

8 P. M.—High diving.

Regular features will be interspersed with burlesque imitations of the contestants and other amusing comicalities.

The A. C. L. management posted notices yesterday to the effect that the shops would be closed down in recognition of the day, thereby giving the employes a free and easy day of unalloyed pleasure and enjoyment.

The committee is gratified at the interest manifested among all classes of citizens to give the toiling masses a day long to be remembered.

The banks, Custom House and several other public institutions will close their doors for the day, while other places will observe holiday hours. At the Postoffice there will be only one early morning delivery and collection. Registry department opens from 9 to 10 A. M. General delivery and stamp windows will be open 9 to 10 A. M. and from 6 to 7 P. M.

The colored union of Carpenters and Joiners has arranged a very interesting programme and will also celebrate the day in an appropriate manner.

Back from the North.

Mr. S. H. Fishblate returned last night from New York and other Northern markets, where he purchased a large and well selected stock of clothing and gent's furnishings for the Fall and Winter trade at the stores of the Fishblate Clothing Company, in the Masonic Temple. Mr. Fishblate says he found the markets chock-a-block with desirable novelties in every line and never selected a better stock than he did last week.

Chicago Stars Coming.

An amateur baseball organization of the city yesterday telegraphed to Washington, N. C., for an engagement to play the Chicago Stars, the female team that is now touring the State. A reply was received from the business manager of the aggregation saying that he would be here this week to schedule a game.

The Crops Are Fine.

Mr. R. M. Wescott returned yesterday from a business trip through Bladen, Pender and Brunswick counties. He says the prospects for crops were never finer and that farmers are in the best of spirits.

CARD FROM THE MAYOR.

EDITOR OF THE STAR—I respectfully request that you publish the following:

Friday in the presence of Messrs. B. F. King, C. H. White and W. H. Northrop, Jr., the chief of police, Mr. Furlong, being called upon said that 'the Mayor not only had never checked or hindered him in his efforts to break up disreputable houses, but on the contrary he, the chief of police, had in every case acted under the direction and order of the Mayor, and that the publication in the Dispatch on the 26th inst. was without his knowledge or consent, and that the reason why he did not write a statement to that effect was that he did not wish to get newspaper notoriety."

I have nothing to add to this complete refutation of the charge against me, and only regret that the introduction of the lady's name as a shield in the controversy has disarmed me, and put an end to the matter.

A. M. WADDELL.

With Judicious Piano Buyers Who Seek Bargains—Friday and Saturday Made Several Homes Happy—Only Six Days Left to Save Money.

In this issue of the STAR will be found an article referring to the merits and popularity of the Mathushek Piano, endorsed by prominent people of Wilmington. As for the State there are more than four thousand Mathushek Pianos owned in North Carolina alone. During the special sale offered by Ludden & Bates there are some rare bargains of the Mathushek to be had. You let this opportunity go by you will never get another. Remember one of the strongest Piano factories is behind every instrument offered in this sale, whose guarantee is backed by money. †

CALLING MR. ROOSEVELT DOWN

A report comes from Washington that the managers of the trusts are not pleased with the freedom with which Mr. Roosevelt is discussing the trust question. They think he is going too far and showing more than necessary earnestness in calling for more expeditious and effective methods in dealing with them. While he was talking in a general sort of way to humor the populace they didn't mind that and didn't see any danger to them in that, but when he goes so far as to talk about the excesses to which organized capital sometimes goes, the harm it does itself, others and the country, and expatiates on the necessity of more stringent laws and more power to the Government to curb combinations and keep them within limits they feel that he is getting down to business and starting a ball rolling that they will not be able to stop. A good many of the Republican politicians take the same view of it, and express an apprehension that if Mr. Roosevelt continues on that line the trusts will combine against him and work to prevent his nomination, and that if nominated, they would work and contribute their money freely to defeat him. That's what's troubling the politicians more than the antagonisms that Mr. Roosevelt may be arousing among the friends of the trusts. They are much more concerned in the success of the party than they are in him. In view of this the impression prevails that pressure will be brought to bear on Mr. Roosevelt to induce him to discuss the trusts less, and less strenuously when he does, and that he will proceed accordingly, say less and say it less aggressively.

The New York Sun is one of the papers that never took any stock in his reported anti-trust programme from the start nor in his anti-trust speeches. It has been sneering at Mr. Littlefield, of Maine, who, it was alleged, was selected by the President to help him smash the trusts which violate the law. It hasn't a very high opinion of Mr. Littlefield's ability, at least his ability to do that.

Commenting upon the remarks that Mr. Roosevelt made in his Boston speech that he was not advocating anything very revolutionary when he asked greater power for Congress to deal effectively with the trusts, adopting, if necessary, a constitutional amendment, it says:

> The President is mistaken. His zeal for the accomplishment of certain moderate legislative changes which he regards as desirable from the point of view of public policy has blinded him temporarily to the real significance of the means he proposes for accomplishing those changes.
> The extent to which his proposal is revolutionary is not measured by the more or less mild and possibly beneficial character of the Massachusetts statutes which he has in mind. The measure of the revolution is in the radical change in the system of our institutions which proposed Constitutional amendment would effect. He would take the power of control over the business from the several State Lesislatures, where it has been exercised since the birth of the Federal Government, and lodge it in the Congress at Washington, where it has never been exercised or asserted except through a strained interpretation of certain provisions of the Constitution, or advocated by anybody except the wildest State Socialists until lately, when the Hon. Charles S. Littlefield arose as the champion of such a change in the organic law, and the House actually passed the resolution, for political effect only, knowing well that it would go to speedy death in the Senate.
> Instead of being "anything but revolutionary," Mr. Roosevelt's Constitutional amendment contemplates the most fundamental change in the fabric of American institutions that has been proposed by any Chief Magistrate since the Government began to exist. This is true whether his programme be regarded as the fruit of consummate wisdom or as the crude project of reckless and short sighted folly. The revolution once effected, the power which the States reserved to themselves more than a century ago having been transferred to Congress through Mr. Roosevelt's efforts, how is he to answer for the moderate and reasonable exercise of that power through all time to come? His own intentions regarding the exercise of the power by Congress may be "anything but revolutionary;" the first legislation effected under that power may reflect his moderate and reasonable intentions; what difference will that make later? The mild and beneficent application of the power under his personal supervision must in the nature of things terminate at some future date. He will be gone, but the tremendous power which he has helped to centralize at Washington will never be restored to the States and by means of that Constitutional power there can be enacted, through all time to come, any legislation affecting the business of the county which may commend itself to the successive Congresses, Republican, Democratic, or Socialistic in majority, as the case may be.
> For neither Mr. Roosevelt nor the Attorney General, nor Mr. Littlefield himself, can draw a Constitutional amendment which shall effect what Mr. Roosevelt now wishes to accomplish and stop right there. In the power of definition of "trusts, monopolies and combinations" is inseparably involved not only the power to regulate and control, but also to prohibit and dissolve any form of business enterprise, any business partnership whatsoever, which the Congress may choose to regard as a trust, monopoly or combination; in short, the absolute power of life or death over all the industries of all the States.

The Sun has no apprehension of a constitutional amendment for the purpose proposed, but speaks thus to call Mr. Roosevelt's attention to the fact that he is treading on dangerous ground, and doesn't comprehend what he suggests. It doesn't fear any amendment of that kind for it knows that such an amendment could not go through the Senate, even if it got through the House, and that if it went through both, there is not the slightest probability of its being ratified by the necessary number of States. The States do not take kindly to constitutional amendments, especially if their intent be to take power from them and transfer it to the Federal Government, so that it isn't hardly worth while for Mr. Roosevelt or anyone else to seriously discuss that suggestion.

A bill conferring upon Congress sweeping power over trusts, even to the extent of destroying them, passed the House of Representatives of the 56th Congress, and was, as it was confidently expected, quietly pigeonholed in the Senate, never to be heard from.

Most of the Democrats in the House voted against it, while the Republicans, who were playing it for politics, voted almost unanimously for it. The Democrats voted against it for the same reasons that the Sun, in the editorial we quote, opposes the suggestion, namely that it is unnecessary and a dangerous power to put in the hands of Congress, a power that might be fearfully abused. The fact that Democratic Representatives voted against that bill has since been paraded by Republican papers and speakers as a proof that they were not honest in their professed desire to regulate and control the trusts. While the Sun is showing up the revolutionary tendency of Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion, it also vindicates the Democrats in Congress who anticipated it and voted against some of those "revolutionary" methods.

NOT THIS YEAR.

Elsewhere we have commented upon Senator Pritchard's tricky, evasive way of dealing with the constitutional amendment in his speech before the convention, and of the failure of the convention to speak definitely and candidly on that point.

As a matter of fact a resolution accepting the constitutional amendment in good faith and pledging the party to so accept it, was prepared and presented to the committee on platform by Prof. J. J. Britt, of Mitchell county. It was a straight and unqualified acceptance and was approved by the committee, but Senator Pritchard heard of it, insisted upon being heard by the committee, and after an hour's work succeeded in having the Britt resolution strangled and the tricky, evasive, non-committal resolution in Pritchard's cut and dried platform retained. The Pritchard plank reads thus:

> We declare that when the constitutional amendment was adopted by the people of North Carolina two years ago, it passed out of the realm of politics, and that if Governor Aycock, Senator Simmons and others keep faith with the people in the pledges then made, there can be no such thing as a race issue in the present campaign.

"Passed out the realm of politics," but not out of the realm of the courts. Where is the pledge here that they will not try to have it set aside by the courts, in the event they succeed in getting control of the Supreme Court, and thus bring it back into "the realm of politics" another year, if not "this year."

They know they can't do anything this year, but there are lots of years ahead of them. Pritchard thought he was playing it cute, but not so cute that sensible people couldn't see through his game.

The President remarked in one of his New England speeches that it "is difficult to make our material condition better by the best laws." But it is mighty easy to make it worse by bad laws.

EVADING THE QUESTION.

In his speech before the Republican convention at Greensboro, Senator Pritchard devoted much of his time to remarks on the constitutional amendment, trying to create the impression that as far as the Republicans are concerned qualified suffrage is a settled question, and therefore there is no reason to make negro suffrage an issue directly or indirectly in the campaign this year. But he didn't say that his party accepts in good faith that amendment, or that his party would not have it set aside or nullify it if it can. He didn't pledge his party to anything, but did condemn the amendment, because by virtue of it some white men will lose their votes this year because they failed to pay their poll tax within the prescribed time.

If, he said, Senator Simmons and the numerous Democratic lawyers whom he consulted were right in the opinion they expressed that the amendment was constitutional, then Mr. Simmons ought to be satisfied with that and be governed by it, but he didn't say that he agreed with those Democratic lawyers and was willing to accept their opinion and be governed by it. All that part of his speech was simply a tricky evasion of the question.

If he and the other men who manipulated that convention had been honest and candid they could very easily have passed a resolution accepting in good faith that amendment as final. But they didn't do that; they simply dodged, evaded the question, and charged the Democrats with needlessly reviving the race issue.

The convention, it is true, froze the negro delegates out, and Chairman Price, in a speech, congratulated the party on at last being "released from the body of death," but they did this on the assumption that they could corrall and vote the negroes as they have been doing all along.

The customs officials at New York intercepted an Egyptian mummy the other day and seized it for duty. They couldn't find any classification for it, so they put it down as an article of manufacture and slapped a duty of $9.80 on it, which the importers paid under protest. These officials didn't intend to let our mummy industry be put in peril by encouraging the importation of Egyptian mummies. We don't know what progress that industry has made in this country, but it is said that experts in England can beat the old Egyptians out of sight in turning out mummies on short notice.

CURRENT COMMENT

—— Up to date there is not much in the attitude of the trusts to indicate that they take any stock in the rumors that they are to be curbed.—Chicago News, Ind.

—— Mr. Littlefield has come to the conclusion that the tariff is in no manner responsible for the trusts. Yet all the trusts stick up for the tariff.—Washington Post, Ind.

—— And now comes a rumor that the shaking up which Mr. Roosevelt gave the boys will end in bringing out Republican candidates in all the Virginia districts, except in the Sixth and the Eighth.—Richmond Times, Dem.

—— If President Roosevelt was in earnest in his notice to the Texas republicans there'll likely be an end to that quadrilateral fight going on over the few pieces of pie distributable in that state. Mr. Roosevelt seems to have the knack of sizing up the conditions controlling his party in the South. A few men maintain a sort of organization for the purpose of giving themselves a certain sort of claim to the federal offices.—Chattanooga Times, Ind.

—— Not all the expenses of war are paid when the death roll is finished and the taxes increased. England is crowded with returned soldiers vainly seeking for places and chances to work. Readjustment of economic balances and forces is always merciless to the individual. England was hampered by the drain of her ablest men to the battlefields of South Africa Now she is embarrassed to provide for them on their return.—New York Tribune, Rep.

From its kingdom of control.
Keeps you from the final goal,
Rise above it.

In your past has error been?
Rise above it.
Be not slave unto your sin.

Do you meet the mocking crew?
Rise above it.
Prove it false by what you do.
Rise above it.
Give out love and strength and light,
And the carper's petty spite
All will vanish out of sight.
Rise above it.

Naught without can keep you back.
Rise above it.
In yourself is all the lack,
Rise above it.
There is nothing that can mar
Life for you but what you are.
If there's any inward bar,

From the soul of being caught;
Evil rests within your thought.

— Take time to be patient with children. Patience and kindness will open a way for good influence over almost any child. Take time to be thoughtful about the aged. Respect gray hairs, even if they crown the head of a beggar.—Christian Observer.

— No good deed, no genuine sacrifice, is wasted. If there be good in it, God will use it for his own purposes and whatever of ignorance or weakness or mistake was mingled with it will drop away as the withered sepals drop away when the full flower has blown.

— Thoughtlessness is mere lapse of memory. The thoughtless makes no study to be thoughtful. His condition is rather one of character than of physical inability to recall or recollect. The thoughtless man forgets the needs and comforts of his neighbor, because he does not care enough about them to remember them. Every one can remember more than he thinks he can if he tries to. Even though his memory be impaired, and he forgets something, such a man is pained by having forgotten what he ought to have remembered. But the thoughtless man cares little that he has not remembered to be more thoughtful.—S. S. Times.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Charlotte News: Mary Sampson, an aged colored woman, was found dead in bed in a room on Mr. W. R Taliaferro's place, at Dilworth, Friday morning. It is supposed that the old woman in turning off the gas Thursday night failed to cut it entirely off.

— Greensboro Telegram: It is learned that at an early date the people of Rockingham county will erect a handsome monument to the memory of the late Governor Reid, the first free suffrage Governor of North Carolina. His remains are buried in Greenview cemetery, in Reidsville, and the grave is unmarked.

— Kinston Free Press: Mr. Andrew J. Grant says there was a severe hail storm at his place in Falling Creek a few days ago that beat the leaves of his tobacco badly. He picked up twelve hundred sticks of tobacco after the storm. The storm was limited in its scope, only touching three farms.

— Tarboro Southerner: Luke Norfleet, an aged colored man, died Thursday night near Conetoe. He claimed to be 108 years old. There are no means to verify this. Undoubtedly he was a very old man. Capt. Orren Williams, who knew him well, says that if he was not a centenarian he was very near it; that he had known him over sixty years.

— Salisbury Sun: Two colored convicts endeavoring to escape from the Wilkes county camp Thursday were killed near the camp by guards. The negroes had attaked one guard, when another came to his rescue and killed one of the convicts. His companion shot the guard, who was seriously injured. The latter fired, however, and killed his assailant.

— Salisbury Truth Index: A robbery occurred at the home of Joseph Council, on Chestnut Hill Sunday night, which takes the cake for pure, unadulterated nerve. Thirty-five dollars was concealed in the bed upon which Mrs. Council was asleep. She was awakened some time in the night by a hand passing over her face She called to her husband, but before he was aroused the intruder left the room and made good his escape.

— Henderson Gold Leaf: Col. W. E. Sturgis, of Ransom's Bridge, was here this week and was showing some beautiful specimens of gold found recently on his place (the old Portis gold mine), which indicates that there is wealth in the old land yet, thereabouts. One of his hands found a piece of quartz rock weighing two pounds and six ounces, containing 297 pennyweights of pure gold. This find was made within 200 yards of the house and other finds have been made in that vicinity. As going to show that gold abundantly exists in this locality—near the junction of the Halifax, Nash and Warren county lines—Mr. Charles J. Alston has a quantity of the yellow metal found on his land near the Portis gold mine on the opposite side of Shocco creek. While in search of black lead he found a vein of gold bearing quartz 1½ inches wide from specimens of which a handful of gold nuggets were extracted.

The other day a lady in Missouri sent us a package and it came at a most opportune time; our babe was in a serious condition; his bowels had been in bad condition for days, and nothing that we gave did any good; the second dose of "TEETHINA" gave perfect relief and he has had no further trouble. Lariat Won His Bride

Cowboy Lassos Coach Horses on Precipice's Brink

Rolla A. Seaton, a wealthy Louisiana planter, is the hero of one of the most remarkable adventures that ever occurred in western Texas. Mr. Seaton had impaired his health while a student in college and went to western Texas, hoping to regain his lost vitality. Although wealthy, he lived out as a cowboy on the Idaline ranch, on the plains of San Saba. Here he remained two years, and his health was fully restored.

Shortly before he was ready to return to his home Colonel Wilder, the president of the X-4 Cattle company and sole owner of the ranch, brought his daughter Idaline, after whom the ranch was named, to the plains. She, too, was in search of health. Naturally the young people were often together. She soon learned to ride, and as health, vigor and exhilaration came into her little body nothing pleased her better than to gallop over plains and mountains accompanied by the accomplished horseman.

Finally the time came when Colonel Wilder and his daughter began to make preparations to return to their home in Alabama. Seaton was ready to go, and he asked permission to accompany his friends a part of the way. He owned a fine Comanche horse called Silver Heels that he had cut out from a band of wild mustangs and tamed. This animal had saved his master's life upon one occasion by his superior speed and strength, and Seaton had determined that he should be well rewarded. "I am going to take Silver Heels home with me," he said, "and I will ride by the stage and keep the bandits and wolves away."

Idaline and her father both pressed the young man to take a seat in the coach and send the horse to the railroad by a messenger, but he persisted in his determination to make the journey in the saddle, and now those who are ever ready to discover the hand of Providence in all affairs insist that Cupid or Idaline's good angel hovered near when the big overland coach rolled away from the ranch gate with an accomplished horseman and ardent lover galloping after it mounted upon the swiftest and gamest horse in western Texas.

A few miles beyond Carlin's Folly the road follows the San Saba river along a narrow, precipitous trail cut out of the side of a mountain more than a hundred feet above the water. The wild mustangs were champing their bits, and, with foam flying from their sides, they were drawing the coach over the plains at a gallop about a mile from the dangerous piece of river road when a large herd of fat steers came in sight, crossing the trail. Idaline, pleased with the picturesque scene, thrust her head from the coach window and waved a colored scarf toward Seaton. The big steers in front threw up their heads and, with a snort, bounded away. The whole herd stampeded, filling the air with the roar of a cyclone. The mustangs were stricken with terror, and they ran at the top of their speed in spite of the strong arms of the driver. The big coach bounced and floundered like a ship in a storm.

Seaton realized the peril of his friends, and he urged his horse forward. Before he reached the side of the stage he saw the driver's body pitched from the seat, and the next instant it fell headlong upon the earth, leaving the lines fluttering in the wind. The frightened cattle were surging about the wheels and the flying mustangs.

Seaton expected to see the coach turn over at every step. Though the maddened cattle and terror stricken mustangs were floundering together in inextricable confusion, the tangled mass kept in the road, and Seaton could see the leaders through a cloud of dust plunging straight toward the narrow grade on the side of the precipice above the deep waters of the San Saba. Above the bellowing of the brutes and the roar of clattering hoofs he could hear the shrieks of the women, and once he caught a glimpse of Idaline's white face and one little hand held toward him.

Driving the steel into the flanks of Silver Heels, he drew his revolver and opened fire upon the tangled mass of mad cattle and mustangs in front of the coach. Several steers fell, but the horses continued to plunge forward toward the precipice apparently unhurt. The fearless horseman could now see the dangerous gorge only a few yards away, and he well knew that horses, cattle and coach would roll in a tangled mass over the bluff to be crushed and mangled on the rocks below or swept to death by the current unless he could stop the flying, crazed brutes almost instantly. He had pressed to the side of the off wheel horse and snapped his pistol against the animal's head. There was but one thing left to do and not an instant to lose. Loosening his lariat, he hurled it through the air with all his strength. The noose dropped over the head of one of the leaders, and Silver Heels, planted upon his haunches, threw the tired beast across the road on the brink of the abyss and held him there until his mad mates floundered and fell in a tangled mass over his body, with the coach at their heels.

When the coach stopped, Idaline was the first to gain her feet. Silver Heels, still on his haunches, with his master firmly seated in the saddle, was near the door, within easy reach of the girl. She held out her hands, and Seaton, observing that the cattle had passed and that the mustangs were choking and kicking each other to death, turned about and lifted the pretty girl upon the saddle in front of him. Colonel Wilder and the other occupants quickly escaped.

When the old gentleman had looked about and felt of himself, he walked toward Seaton with extended hands. "Young man, how am I ever to reward you for your heroic conduct?"

"I hold the only reward," said the young man, "that I want in my arms."

"The ranch goes with her," was the reply.

Hunting Wolves At Night In Poland

Hunting wolves in Russia is a thrilling kind of sport. It is a much more dangerous diversion than bearding the African lion in his den or pursuing the tiger of Asia to his lair. Usually the big cats have to be sought, while the fierce wolves of the north when gathered in packs are relentless and untiring in pursuit of their prey.

In the course of the past winter, an unusually snowy one, packs of wolves have come right into the Polish villages and have carried away the cattle out of their stalls. The landowners hunt the animals by night. A three horse sledge, accompanied by a mounted man carrying a torch, drives through the woods. Attached to the sledge by a long rope is a dead pig, which is dragged behind through the snow.

As soon as the wolves smell the prey they rush in packs out of the thicket and fall upon the dead body. The horses in the sledge gallop at full speed, for the wolves threaten to attack them also. The hunters meanwhile shoot as many wolves as they can, and the wounded animals are immediately devoured by the starving pack. It is a dangerous position for the hunters when one of the horses falls. In such a case the whole party may fall a prey to the wolves.

Strikes a Rich Find.

"I was troubled for several years with Chronic Indigestion and Nervous Debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 31.

THE GOVERNMENT'S FINANCES

Receipts and Expenditures—A Big Surplus—National Banks Increasing Their Circulation.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The receipts of the Treasury Department for the month of August, just closing, exceed the expenditures by $5,955,812, an unexpectedly large surplus. The total receipts were $49,605,812 and the expenditures $42,650,000. For the same month of last year the total receipts were $45, 394,125, and the expenditures $30, 351,497; a surplus of a little over $6,000,000. The big surplus this month has been attained in the face of the heavy cut made by Congress is the way of wiping off the books the taxes imposed on account of the war with Spain. This act of Congress decreased the receipts by something like $5,500,000 a month. In fact, in July the receipts from internal revenue fell off more than that figure as a result of the cut. This month the reduction is not so large. The increase is over $5,000,000, showing that the country is buying more heavily abroad each month.

In accordance with the suggestion of Secretary Shaw, national banks in the large cities are preparing to increase their circulation by the deposit of bonds. Since a few weeks ago, when Secretary Shaw asked the banks to prepare to meet any emergency by increasing their circulation, the banks have notified the controller's office they want to stand ready for an increase of $12,250,000. A large portion of this currency is now being printed at the bureau of engraving and printing and will be ready for the banks as soon as the deposit of bonds is made.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE TROUBLE

Rumors That a Special Session of the Pennsylvania Legislature May Be Called by the Governor.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—Persistent rumors were in circulation to-day that a special session of the Legislature may be called by Governor Stone in the interest of legislation looking to the arbitration of the strike in the anthracite region. It is understood that should there be a popular demand for the calling of the Legislature together to grapple with the question, a demand which should be imperative and unmistakable, representing the great mass of the people who have indirectly suffered by the coal strike, the Governor would be constrained to call an extra session.

During the last Legislature the Governor not only urged upon the Assembly the necessity for passing an arbitration law, but he had a draft of a bill covering the need, made and sent to the coal operators and officials of the United Mine Workers. Neither the operators nor the miners, however, approved of the bill, as it was framed and the Governor knew that it was impossible to secure its passage in the face of the objection of both sides interested.

The Governor modelled his bill upon that which has been in successful operation in New Zealand for seven years, and which, during that period, has prevented all labor trouble.

AGED COUPLE MURDERED.

Shot to Death at Their Home Near Bronson, Fla., by Robbers.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

GAINESVILLE, FLA., August 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Brit Lewis, residing five miles south of Bronson, were murdered last night by robbers. The aged couple had been calling on their son, who resides only a short distance from where the killing took place. They returned at night and surprised two robbers who were in the act of opening a large iron safe in which the prosperous farmer kept his money. The son of Lewis heard shots in the direction of his father's house and ran at once to the place. When the son arrived he found the dead body of his mother lying across the corpse of her husband near the entrance to the house. Both had been shot several times and then knocked in the head.

The belief is that the murder was committed by two parties, and the general impression is that they are white men who are acquainted with the premises and knew of his wealth.

Sheriff Sutton, with a large posse, is scouring the country for the fugitives and bloodhounds have been brought from Marion and Alachua counties, and developments are momentarily expected. If captured a lynching will follow, it is thought.

"ARBITRAMENT OF THE SWORD."

President Roosevelt's Recent Pronouncement Regarding the Monroe Doctrine.

DISCUSSED BY BRITISH PRESS.

A Long Sermon on American Greed and Hypocrisy—Danger Threatening the British Empire from the United States' Future Expansion.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, August 30.—"A heated rivalry, which may some day be settled by the arbitrament of the sword," seems to fairly sum up the Saturday Review's opinion of the relations between Great Britain and the United States. Discussing President Roosevelt's recent pronouncement on Monroeism, the always bitterly anti-American Saturday Review uses the President's speech as a text on which to enunciate a long sermon on "American Greed and Hypocrisy," and the danger threatening the British Empire from the United States' future expansion. It says, in reviewing the history of the Monroe Doctrine:

"It is unfortunate, if not exceptional, that the United States cannot be satisfied with the plain, straight forward policy of self-interest without attempting to explain it as a disinterested and highly moral position. It was on this basis that the war with Spain was undertaken, resulting in the Philippines being annexed and Cuba being put under the heel. South America's natural resources are enormous, but the individual States cannot act together. It is plain that they will not long resist American extension southward, and American "protection" from European aggression will soon incubate into occupation by the United States."

To Acquire Canada.

Proceeding to discuss the effect of Monroeism on the British Empire the Saturday Review says:

"The United States is the only great power separated from the British Empire by nothing but a land frontier, and it is the settled object of the United States to ultimately include Canada. The United States is commercially growing fast at our expense, and judging from its present progress the power of the United States in wealth and numbers will soon exceed that of any rival we have, possibly excepting Russia, whose position in relation to us territorially is not nearly so critical. Under these circumstances, it is surely clear that the power we need be most concerned about is America. Acute territorial and commercial rivalry always results in an ultimate trial by force. It is the only final settlement.

"There is no question of liking or disliking Americans. It is simply a question of which shall ultimately get the better of the other side."

A Divergent View.

A curiously divergent view is expressed by the Spectator on the same topic. It says:

"We hold that the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine is as good for us as for the United States. We, like the United States, have no desire to see the status quo violently altered by the efforts of continental European states to carve out for themselves colonial empires in Central and South America. It would suit us no more than the United States to see Germany established in Southern Brazil or else where on the western continent."

Proceeding to point out that Monroeism cannot rest on air and that unless based on power it is sure to be exposed to be pushed aside and disregarded, the Spectator continues:

"To make the doctrine effective America must build a fleet unquestionably stronger than that of France or Germany. She need not trouble to outbuild us, as we not merely agree to but may be said to be passive supporters of the Monroe Doctrine.

German Opinion.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt's fresh declaration of the Monroe Doctrine has been received here with an air of wonder. The tone generally assumed is one of surprise that the doctrine should be affirmed so energetically at a moment when no European power disputes it, least of all Germany. Moreover, it is asserted that Germany gave her assent to the doctrine soon after President Roosevelt's assumption of the presidency, and that the State Department has abundant knowledge that Germany does not even contemplate securing coaling stations in the western hemisphere. Some suspicious critics suggest that something must be going on behind the diplomatic screen to occasion the President's enunciation. The Foreign Office tells the correspondent of the Associated Press that official circles by no means share the newspaper excitement. It reads the speech in connection with definition of the doctrine contained in the President's last message to Congress which thoroughly satisfies Germany. The disposition in some quarters to regard President Roosevelt's speech as directed against Germany is wholly inadmissible, because Germany, as the American government knows, never designed territorial acquisition on the American continent.

COLLIDED IN A FOG.

Schooner Annie N. Harris Sunk by Steamer Charlotte—Two Men Drowned.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, VA., Aug. 30.—A dense fog in the vicinity of West Point at an early hour this morning caused a fatal collision between the steamer Charlotte and schooner Annie N. Harris, and a panic among the passengers and seamen ensued.

Lee Robinson, a young man of New Kent county, and Elvin Randall, a colored seaman on the schooner, were drowned. Captain John Carlton, Jos. L. Mulford, of West Point, and Joseph Jackson, of Richmond, jumped overboard and were picked up by a tug. The schooner was cut in two and sank within a few seconds, together with the unfortunate men and one thousand bushels of oysters, which were being shipped to West Point.

STEAMERS IN COLLISION.

Side-Wheel Boat Saugerties Badly Damaged in New York Harbor.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The side-wheel steamer Saugerties, of the Saugerties Line, and the steam-lighter Bessie, of Yonkers, collided in the North river to-day off Seventieth street, this city. The Saugerties had a big hole stove in her port bow only a few inches away from the water line. The Saugerties' twenty-five passengers were asleep in their bunks when the collision occurred, and for a short time there was considerable excitement. The Bessie stood by and took off the passengers of the Saugerties and landed them.

A QUIET DAY IN THE STRIKE REGION.

Order Issued to Arrest All Women and Girls Who Insult Troops in Any Way Only a Lull in the Rioting.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SHENANDOAH, PA., Aug. 30.—General Gobin's report from Maj. Gearhart to-day was to the effect that everything was quiet in the Panther Creek region. More men reported for work there, he says, than on any previous day, and none were molested by the strikers.

In Shenandoah and vicinity every thing continues quiet. It is generally expected here that an attempt will be made to operate the St. Nicholas mine on Monday and Tuesday, as preparations for work of some sort are going on.

TAMAQUA, PA., August 30.—Strike leaders went from door to door in the Panther Creek valley last night, and spread the news of General Gobin's stern warning and his instructions to the men to shoot, and shoot to kill, if molested in any manner. That the words of the commanding officer have had at least temporary effect was shown to-day when the troops escorted several hundred non-union men to work without being molested in any way. Companies E and F went out at daybreak with their guns loaded and their best marksmen on the flanks. When the soldiers passed the crowds of strikers on the streets, they deliberately turned their backs to them. However, there was no hooting or jeering.

Supplementing his order of last night, General Gobin has directed Major Gearhart, in command here, to arrest all women and girls who insult the troops in any way. The opinion seems to prevail among the officers and citizens that the lull in the rioting will last but a short time. The fact that more men went to work to-day than yesterday is not calculated to improve the temper of the strikers.

ROOSEVELT IN VERMONT.

Received Everywhere With Enthusiasm. Made Eight Speeches During the Day, Accompanied by Mr. Shaw.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BURLINGTON, VT., August 30.—Everywhere in the State of Vermont to-day President Roosevelt was received with enthusiasm. He crossed over from New Hampshire into Vermont about noon in a tally ho drawn by six horses. Seated on the box with him were Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill and Senator Proctor. Four stops and as many speeches were scheduled for to day, but the President yielded to pressure and made eight speeches. South Royalton, Bethel, Randolph and Waterbury were the places at which the additional stops were made. At the platform at Bethel was Mrs. Chapman, who had all but rounded her century of life. Still another centenarian, Marshall Shaw, was on the platform.

Northfield gave the President greetings as the train sped by. The place has been made famous since the battle of Manila for it was at Norwich University that Dewey secured his early education.

To-night, after paying a brief visit to the home of ex-Governor Woodbury, President Roosevelt, accompanied by Secretary Shaw, boarded a yacht for the Secretary's Summer residence at Thompson's landing, where he will remain until Monday morning.

WRECKED BY A TORNADO.

Train Hurled Down Embankment—Two Persons Killed and Others Injured.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WAESCA, MINN., Aug. 30.—Two persons were killed, three fatally injured and more than a score of others hurt this evening in the wreck of a train which had been hurled down an embankment by a tornado. The train, west bound on the Chicago and Northwestern, consisting of an engine, baggage, coach and crowded passenger cars, while running at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, was struck by the tornado two miles from Merridan. The passenger and baggage cars were hurled eighteen feet down the embankment. A brakeman was putting on the clamps when the crash came and the wreckage was ignited by the oil. The dead are: Peter Eterson, age 5 years, Waseca, Minn.; woman, supposed to be Anna W. Bickford, Albert Lea, Minnesota; the fatally injured are: Miss Eva Richardson, New Eulm, Minn., hurt internally; A. C. McConnell, Vrookings, S. D., hurt internally; unidentified woman, crushed.

STARTLING SCHEME.

For a Close Union of the Church and Stage in the Cause of Religion.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, August 30.—The Rev. Forbes Phillips, vicar of Gorleston, near Yarmouth, who aroused widespread comment by permitting Mrs. Brown Potter to recite from his pulpit in June, 1901, is agitating a fresh and more startling scheme for a close union of the church and stage in the cause of religion. He proposes that each parish maintain a theatre, under the management of the church. In an outspoken interview the clergyman says: "Clergymen overdo the religious side of life, thereby ruining the spiritual liver, like that of over-fed Strasburg geese."

The plan of the Rev. Mr. Phillips includes a revival of the mystery plays of the Middle Ages and the establishment of a sort of Oberamergau society in each parish.

WEST VIRGINIA COAL FIELDS.

Situation Quiet—A Few Shots Fired, Supposedly at the Guards.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., August 30.—The situation on New River remained very quiet throughout the day. A few shots were fired at Whipple, some miles up Loop Creek, supposedly at one of the guards, but the shooter, who was in the brush, escaped. At Rush Run, on the river two miles below here, there was some shooting in the brush and Captain Rand, of Company M, found three men with Winchesters. They made off when discovered, and as their bullets were supposed to have been fired in the air they were released. The feeling in Fayette is very bitter over sending troops and the sheriff is being roundly abused on all sides. Governor White is not blamed because it is thought he acted merely upon information furnished through the proper legal channel.

George Gardner, the middle weight boxer, has accepted Sharkey's challenge for a contest. The contest will probably be brought off in San Francisco some time in October. If Gardner defeats Sharkey, he will challenge Jeffries.

SAVABLE WON THE FUTURITY STAKE.

Fifty Thousand People Were at Sheepshead Bay to See the Races.

PRIZE RICH, FIELD LARGE.

Thirty-four Horses Were Carded to Go, But Only Twenty-four Were in the Race—The Winner's Prize Was $45,000—In All, $57,400.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, August 30.—Savable, sired by Salvator, the most sensational race horse the American turf has ever seen, won the rich Futurity at Sheepshead Bay to-day. John A. Drake, a Western millionaire, owns him; his trainer, Enoch Wishard, is from the West, and Ryan, a Western jockey, rode him to victory. August Belmont's Hastings colt, Lord of the Vale, was second, only an eyelash behind, while Dazzling, one of the four Keene representatives, finished third. The time was 1.14, better than the Futurity record over the whole course, but a second and four-fifths lower than the best full six furlongs two-year old record down the chute.

Never was a more inspiring race witnessed at beautiful Sheepshead, the garden spot of the East, never was the crowd greater or the enthusiasm more unbounded. Fifty thousand would be a close estimate to put on the multitude, for this was to be the greatest of all Futurities. The prize was rich, the field large, its quality incomparable, and before the fall of the flag it looked as if any one of the dozen of the thoroughbreads had an even chance for the stake.

Indeed, with the great field that faced the starter, the greatest in numbers that ever struggled for the laurel wreath of championship, it seemed as though nothing short of a miracle could bring them all safely through that six-furlong journey, short though it was, with the crowding and bunching around the dangerous curve of the chute. They passed that point, however, like a troop of cavalry, and straightened out, came into the stretch in a whirl of dust. Savable and Lord of The Vale fighting it out to the last inch. It was Ryan's good riding that carried his mount past the flying Belmont colt just at the wire.

John A. Drake and the Western contingent were confident that Savable would score, and they played him down from twenty and in some books twenty five to fifteen. In such a surging mass as that which crowded the betting ring, with every man struggling to place his money, thousands were as units. Eager players seized what was thrust at them and knew no East or West. It was the West, however, that rounded up the good thing of the day and came in at nightfall.

Sheepshead never knew such a crowd as gathered there to-day. At noon the lower tier of the three-decked grand stand was crowded. Long before the bugle sounded for the first race all three tiers were filled with a mass of moving color. It was women everywhere, costumed in filmy brilliant gowns, and bedecked with colors rare and radiant. Twenty thousand surged in the field and within and beyond the track rails there were thousands more.

Thirty-one were carded to go, but Sovereign, Sir Noorbis, Dalesman, Love Note, Royal Summons, Merry Acrobat and Medal were scratched. Bounding Beauty was added at a late moment by the Pepper stable, and a few minutes later withdrawn. There were twenty-four left to fight it out.

The value of the futurity was to the winner $45,400; to second $5,250; to third $2,750; in all $53,470. J. B. Haggin bred the winner.

To J. B. Haggin, breeder of Savable, $2,000; to August Belmont, breeder of Lord of the Vale, $1,120, and to James R. Keene, breeder of Dazzling, $500—in all $57,150.

John A. Drake is credited with having won the largest bet ever made by a turfman in this country. His winnings amounted to more than $100,000.

A BOLD ROBBERY.

Tray Containing Diamonds Taken from a Jewelry Store.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Early to-night an unknown man entered the jewelry store of Charles R. Wilsdorf, on Payne avenue, and after the jeweler had placed a tray containing about $1,000 worth of diamonds on the counter the man threw a handful of red pepper in the jeweler's eyes, grabbed the tray of diamonds and made good his escape.

Mr. Wilsdorf, notwithstanding the fact that he was blinded by the pepper, grasped a revolver and followed the man into the street, firing as he went. A big crowd joined in the chase but the robber succeeded in eluding his pursuers. Later Mr. Wilsdorf was found wandering helplessly about the street and the physician at the hospital to which he was taken is of the opinion that his sight has been totally destroyed.

BUILDINGS COLLAPSED.

Two Five-Story Brick Structures Filled With Green Coffee.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Tons of brick, mortar, beams and coffee fell with a crash into the street and on the elevated structure and trolley tracks today when two five story brick buildings on Fulton street, Brooklyn, collapsed. Twenty-five thousand bags of green coffee, owned by J. H. Taylor and Smith & Welbridge, of Manhattan, were stored in the building and proved too great a burden. By marvelous good fortune not a man was in the building at the time. No one was on the sidewalk, nor were any trolley cars on elevated trains near by. The loss is estimated at about $60,000.

FIGHTING IN HAYTI.

Between the Provisional Government Forces and the Revolutionists.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Under date of last evening from Port-au-Prince, U. S. Minister Powell cabled to the State Department that severe fighting had taken place the day before near Cape Haytien and that it was in progress at the time his cablegram was sent. Great loss has occurred on both sides. The provisional army was under command of General Nord, while General Jumeau was in command of the revolutionists.

The reports relative to the creation of another American cardinal are said at Rome to be unfounded, or at least premature.

ARMY AND NAVY IN MIMIC WARFARE.

First Twenty-four Hours of the Period of Preparation Spent in Strengthening Their Respective Forces.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEWPORT, R. I., August 30.—The army of defence and the White Squadron, under Admiral Higginson, have spent the first twenty-four hour of the period of preparation in strengthening their forces. The Massachusetts Heavy Artillery came from Boston to day, part going to Fort Rodman, at New Bedford; the batteries coming here as additional forces for the forts The army also received, in addition, the Rhode Island signal corps of twenty men.

As for the navy, the Massachusetts Naval Brigade was sent on board the warships by means of two naval tugs. This evening General MacArthur again visited the forts in this vicinity, this time on the war yacht Kanawha, accompanied by a large staff made up of officers, not only of this division, but from the War Department.

The gunboat Gloucester, which came in during the forenoon, left for the fleet at 4 o'clock with the mail. She may return to-morrow as Admiral Higginson has until midnight on Sunday to disappear from the coast, without being technically declared at that time.

During the afternoon Brigadier General Greeley arrived and spent some time in inspecting the signal arrangements, paying special attention to the search light at Price's Neck. Upon his recommendation a third telephone wire was strung to this station; so all the signal stations, from Fort Adams around the southern end of Rhode Island to eastern points are now connected by telephone.

Just at sunset the big stern yacht Kanawha came into the harbor with General MacArthur. He was received by Colonel Hasbrouck, but no salutes were fired. The arrangements at the fort in this vicinity are complete, and the evening was spent in additional search light practice.

To-morrow night the guards at all the forts will be stationed and the signal stations will be fully manned in preparation for the attack, which, according to the rules, may begin anytime after midnight.
